The Sky Is Calling

No, a UFO hasn't landed on Houston's Rice University campus—it's the latest Skyspace from artist James Turrell.

Named the Suzanne Deal Booth Centennial Pavilion (for a Rice alumna and Turrell's former assistant), the ethereal installation frames the sky through an aperture in a thin steel roof; at dawn and dusk, colored lights transform the structure, creating a mesmerizing effect.

The space also hosts concerts—fitting, since the renowned Shepherd School of Music is next door.
